RE: GDPR Regulations

As from 25th May 2018 the law is changing and the new GDPR regulations come into force. This means that we must inform you of the data we hold for you and how we will use it.

Listed below are the details which we may hold for you, these details are held in our accounting software database on our computer.

We will only use this information when we are trading with you and we will never disclose to any third party or use your information for marketing purposes.

All your information is stored securely on our computer system, so we are in complete control of what happens with your information.

Details we may hold:

Name

Address

Telephone numbers

E-mail addresses

In order for us to continue to provide products and services to you in the future, it is in your legitimate interests for us to hold some of your data on file.

If you would like to see more information about how we store, update and delete your information please contact Joanne Parton, using our email address - info@middletonglass.com.

Yours faithfully,

Joanne Parton
